This Executive Summit Series will develop a toolbox for law enforcement agencies to recognize anticipated trends toward terrorism and potential funding sources and scams to finance terrorism in your community. It is the intent that law enforcement agencies will use the tools provided during these seminars to operate proper intelligence collecting and training duties within their respective organizations.

ILETSB EXECUTIVE INSTITUTE
CENTER FOR HOMELAND SECURITY LEADERSHIP

The February 2010 program will focus on the global situation of terrorism.

- Israeli techniques of intelligence collection and information dissemination
- Open-Source intelligence gathering using social networks, blogs and other non-secreted communications
- How terrorists are recruited and trained
- The use of key-sources before, during and after an attack
- The dangers of the lone wolf terrorist
- How to take raw information and transform it into usable intelligence
- Rules and regulations in developing the “no-fly” lists and how the system operates to gather and appropriately disseminate information in the field.

Presenters

Institute of Terrorism Research and Response

ITRR's Israeli and American experts provide counter-terrorism training, seminars, and security specialization in dealing with threats such as Weapons of Mass Destruction (WMD), suicide bombers, and other forms of international terror striking both the public and private sector.

Terrorist Screening Center — Terence Wyllie (FBI Retired)

The TSC External Training and Outreach provides law enforcement (federal, state, local, tribal, territorial and military) and intelligence community partners current informational and situational awareness training regarding the TSC and the U.S. Government's watch listing and screening processes.
